1. NEW SITE

The catalogue size has grown and managing it on the website became cumbersome. Not all browsers were able to display the site the way I intended and instant downloads became less instant than they used to be.

Although this is only an iterim measure, I've been working hard behind the scenes learning new code and have revised the website. The goal was to make the site faster, more user friendly, make viewing and selecting products less complicated and bring it up to, well...code...as it were. The pages have been "validated" and I have checked the site in six browsers to be sure it all works.

You will see that the menu now runs across the top and drops down. I have added a page for Deb Scala, co-producer of the SeaNotes Series, and a separate page for Foxglove Music Press, complete with submission information.

Next up will be a new shopping cart and a visual overhaul! If you have any changes you would like to see, please let me know.

2. COMING SOON

Another a cappella piece, Sweet and Low, has been recorded and is in editing. I expect to release both the sheet music and recording within the next 30 days.

I will also be adding a page for house concerts complete with video and booking information. Thank you, thank you to Bobbi Longstreet for hosting my first house concert!

Watch for more info in the coming newsletters!
